CITY IN BRIEF.

The Easter holidays of the Hebrews will begin next Monday.

Work has been commenced on the East street bridge over Pogue's Run.

It is said that there is one switch on the Union Railway tracks which throws the rails for five tracks.

The remains of David Anthony, who died at the County Asylum on Wednesday, will be shipped to Augusta, Ind., to-day for burial.

Dr. Charles D. Pearson has been quite ill for three weeks. The doctor is now convalescent and expects to be as good as new again in a few days.

The Tippecanoe Club will attend a reunion to be held at the residence of James Hubbard of Washington Township, who is one hundred years old to-day.

Several members of the Council are not in favor of diverting the saloon tax to the viaduct until after the Market house and City Hall has been erected.

The Marion County Agricultural and Horticultural Society will hold its regular monthly meeting to-morrow afternoon, in the rooms of the Agricultural Board.

The young ladies of the Second Presbyterian Church will give a supper in the church parlors this evening, the proceeds to be devoted to furnishing one of the charity wards in the City Hospital.

Our old and always welcome friends, Hon. Rob Miers and J. M. McGee, Esq., of Bloomington, called on us yesterday. Mr. McGee is on his way home from Washington. He is very much pleased with Mr. Cleveland, and says if the Indiana Democracy will have patience, that they will receive their full share of Federal patronage. The President has a heavy contract on his hands, but he is doing his best to carry it out, as he understands it.

Sam Dinnan and Scott Baker, yesterday, filed an article in the Criminal Court, charging Tom Devine with assault and battery with intent to kill.

George Wallace, while standing at the stove in Hamlin's real estate office, yesterday afternoon, was struck on the head by a falling piece of iron and badly hurt. The blood streamed over his face in a stream.

A small wreck occurred at the Big Four Yards last evening, on account of which the 11 o'clock train was compelled to go round the Belt and come in on the J. M. and L. tracks. A flat car loaded with ties was thrown across the track.

R. R. Rouse has just completed sinking the driven wells to a greater depth for fire protection at the Stock Yards. N. P. Ijams, the Superintendent of the Stock Yards, reports that after a thorough test the wells furnish more water than the fire pumps could use.

The Union Building and Loan Association of Grant County was incorporated yesterday. Capital stock, $500,000. The directors are: William H. Irvine, George Webster, Jr., William E. Hogan, Charles C. Jamison, L. M. White, John B. Lytle, Philip Patten, W. H. Charles and L. C. Beshore.

SUICIDE.

Jesse Clark Shoots Himself Through the Heart—Cause, Despondency.

Jesse Clark, living at the corner of Nevada and Shelton streets, near the Atlas Works, committed suicide yesterday afternoon by shooting himself through the heart. He is aged twenty-seven years and unmarried. He has been employed as a hand on a farm near Irvington, and has only been living with his brother since Saturday, at which time he came to him for the first time in four years. A few minutes before the deed was done which ended his life, he said to his sister: "Select a place to bury me, for I won't be alive to-morrow." He then walked out to the wood shed, and a moment later the shot was heard. He was found lying on the ground, and death ensued in a few moments. He had used a No. 32 revolver, and his aim was good, as the ball struck to the heart. Despondency is the supposed cause. Kragle & Whitsett took charge of the remains. Coroner Stratford will hold an inquest to-day.

AMUSEMENTS.

RHEA AT THE GRAND TO-NIGHT.

To-night, at the Grand Opera House, the distinguished emotional actress and favorite society star, Mlle. Rhea, will open a brief engagement, presenting Victorien Sardon's new comedy-drama, "Arcadia." She will have the support of a strong company, notable among which is the talented young leading man, Mr. Edward J. Henley, late of Wallack's Theater, New York. Speaking of a recent performance the Washington (D. C.) Post says:

"Arcadia," the play in which Mlle. Rhea appeared at the National Theater, Washington, last night, is called "Dangers of Ground" in the original French of Sardon. The plot hinges on the consideration of an impetuous lover, going into the house of his betrothed at an unusual hour, and finds himself in the apartments of his sweetheart's married sister, the "Baroness de Trouville," with whom he had previously had a slight flirtation. Threatened with discovery by the husband he seizes the Baroness' diamonds, resolving to save her reputation even at the cost of being branded as a thief. The husband's suspicions were aroused, however, and his wife's assurances of her innocence fail to allay it. He refuses to hear what the lover has to say, and a duel to the death is about to take place when all is happily cleared up by the ingenious confession of "Helene," the wronged wife's innocent sister, and the real cause of the whole trouble. As "Helene" Mlle. Rhea was seen perhaps at her best. Nothing she has heretofore done in Washington has been so entirely in the line of her powers, and so calculated to display her many charms of manner as this part.

"Camille" will be given at the matinee to-morrow afternoon, and "The American Countess" at night.

"CINDERELLA" AT ENGLISH'S.

Another good sized audience witnessed the superb performance of "Cinderella," by the Juvenile Hollywoods. The opera and its little delineators have taken a wonderful hold on our people, both young and old. Baby Clara and her wonderful little brother illustrate to the audience that it is not always age or experience that are necessary adjuncts to make first class performers. Our little ones in America are just as much an improvement on those of the old country as all other of our inventions. "Cinderella" remains with us but a few days longer, and those who have not taken their children to see it should do so.

AMHERST GLEE CLUB.

A delightful concert is promised to-night by the "Amherst Glee Club" at the Plymouth Church. They come handsomely recommended. The Springfield Republican says:

From strictly a musical judgment the singing was admirable.

The Middletown Press says: They sang their songs with a gusto that brought down the house. Were they to visit Middletown again they would be sure of an overflowing house.

NOTES.

Matinee at English's to-day.

The Zoo closes to-morrow night "sine die."

The Amy Gordon Opera Troupe at English's next week.

The Museum was packed again last night. Open all day to-day after 10 a. m.

Barlow & Wilson's Minstrels drew a packed house last night at the Grand.

Minnie Maddern and McDaniel's Opera Troupe come to the Grand next week.

Rhea has added another new play to her repertoire—"The Power of Love," played in Paris under the title of "Piccolino." It is one of Sardon's brightest comedies. In it Rhea will appear as a boy—a young sculptor—and those who have seen this charming actress at rehearsal in native attire say that "of all the human forms devine Rhea's take the palm."

Axtell Still on Top.

John McGee and William Axtell, of Monroe County, were in the city yesterday and visited the State Educational Department. Both of these gentlemen claim to be the Superintendent of the county, but the State has recognized the last named. McGee has been trying to oust Axtell ever since last November, and says he will carry the case before the Supreme Court, which he thinks will sustain him.

The Track.

The Indiana breeders of trotting and pacing horses met at the Denison yesterday afternoon. Quite a number of new members were added to the list. It was decided to hold a meeting next fall for colt stakes and aged horses, both for trotting and pacing. The place for holding this meeting was not decided upon, but it is quite probable that it will occur in this city.

RAILWAY NEWS.

The Bonds of the T. C. and St. L. Practically Secured by the I. B. and W. People.

Big Four Earnings for the Third Week in March—Railroad "Fever" in Indiana Dying Out—Other Items of the Rail.

W. J. Craig, Receiver of the T. C. and St. L., is in the city on official business.

The impression prevails that Vanderbilt owns a controlling interest in the Bee Line. This is not the case. He owns but 4,500 of the 150,000 shares constituting the capital stock of the road.

It is claimed that the I. B. and St. L. management is allowing the Evansville, Rockport and Jasper branches of the road to run down to the lowest degree of wretchedness.

Emigrant travel is growing heavier, and will begin in earnest about April 1. The Bee Line and Vandalia are securing a large amount of this class of business, and it is understood that the various roads will soon begin running land excursions again.

The Peoria, Decatur and Evansville, Louisville, Evansville and St. Louis Air Line, Louisville and Nashville and Evansville and Terre Haute Roads have come to the front with joint freight tariff No. 1 naming the six classes and grain and lumber rates to all the principal points in Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and Michigan. The E. and T. receives no freight for Greenup, Matton, Sullivan, Decatur and Lincoln, Ill., and the E. D. and E. receives no freight from Vincennes, Terre Haute, Danville and Watseka. The rates are very low, and are governed by the Middle and Western States classification.

"We have been particularly fortunate this year, so far as accidents are concerned," said a Bee Line official yesterday. "We did not have a bad accident or collision on our road during the entire winter, notwithstanding the fact that the deep snows and intense cold weather had a demoralizing effect on the railroads throughout the country. There is no doubt, however, but the winter found us with a road-bed and track in as good condition as money and labor could place them." The Bee Line certainly is in splendid physical condition, for men who travel thousands of miles every year say that is a pleasure over the main line proper and all divisions.

Barely one new railroad project has filed articles of incorporation with the Secretary of State since the beginning of the present year, and the outlook for railroad construction is not as bright as it might be. The very fact, however, that the projectors of a road "bright prospects" are it incorporated, does not indicate that that line will be built. Not by any means; for if it did, Indiana could boast of nearly 100 more roads than she does. Day after day last year and the year before, railroads were incorporated, not one-third of which have ever been constructed. The projectors always depended upon subsidies from the towns through which the proposed road was to pass, and in nine cases out of ten their fond hopes were blighted by the refusal of those towns to give up the amount of money demanded. The project, therefore, went glimmering, destined to remain a "paper" railroad forever. Notwithstanding, it is singular that the railroad fever has died out so quick.

Now comes the information from a reliable source that Austin Corbin, President of the I. B. and W., has practically secured control of the bonds of the Toledo, Cincinnati and St. Louis Narrow-gauge and that the St. Louis division will be in the hands of the I. B. and W. people before the end of the coming summer. In eighteen months, a local railroad man says, this line will be standard gauge from Kokomo to East St. Louis. At present the line is in anything but fair condition. It is now laid with forty-pound English steel rails and six feet, which will have to be torn up. It will cost the I. B. and W. about $10,000 per mile to convert the road into a broad-gauge and thoroughly equip it, but they can well afford to do this, for it will give them a splendid outlet to St. Louis. Connected with this, the T. C. and St. L. at Veedersburgh and notwithstanding the fact that the I. B. and W. will have a longer haul than either the Vandalia or I. and St. L. they will compete sharply for St. Louis business and no doubt secure a good portion of it.

BIG FOUR EARNINGS.

COURT-HOUSE LOCALS.

Dismissal of Suits in the Courts—A Scene in Room One—Criminal.

The suit of Frank M. Wright vs. the city is still on trial by jury in Room 2.

John Smith has filed suit against W. B. Dickson & Co. on two notes. Demand, $1,200.

The Richardson brothers were sent to jail for ten days and fined $1 for chicken stealing.

Judge Norton took under advisement the case against Philip J. Marshall, for petit larceny. He was charged with having stolen $20 of a man named Cline.

Judge Walker yesterday dismissed the suits of Alice Kirsch vs. Frank Kirsch et al., and Anna Crumpton vs. John H. Crumpton et al. These were suits for maintenance.

The divorce suit of Agnes M. Haehl vs. William Haehl was dismissed in Room 1 yesterday. Plaintiff sued for divorce recently, alleging cruel treatment for cause. She had said she was born and raised in this State, which is true, but soon after her marriage three years ago, she went with her husband to Iowa and has been living here now for about a year. The statute requires two years residence, and this was the reason the divorce suit was dismissed. It will also be remembered that about a week ago the defendant filed habeas corpus proceedings to get the custody of two children, alleging that the mother had no means, while he was employed at his trade, was making good wages, and is steady and industrious. The complaint also alleged that the present surroundings of the children are not conducive to their morals, and for these reasons he asked that he be given the custody of the two children. When the divorce suit was dismissed the husband consented to the dismissal of the habeas corpus proceedings, but this was objected to by the mother, who demanded a trial upon the merits of the case. Upon this Judge Taylor fixed 9 o'clock this morning as the hour for a hearing of the case. William Haehl had in the meantime secured one of the children and left the court room with it. Mrs. Haehl observed the movement and gave chase, but at last accounts the father had the child. There was considerable excitement over the affair among the friends of the parties, and the proceedings of the court this morning will be watched with considerable interest.
